HIGH POINT WINNERS

Hamilton and Mildred Anderson of Bellaire were the high point winners in their age divisions at the Ninth Annual Masters Men and Women's Swimming Championships this weekend. Each won first place in six races. The event, for swimmers 25 and over, was held at the West University pool.

Ex-Roommates Top Seven Marks In Masters Swim

Special to The Washington Post

Dot Wise and Chris Ruppert were roommates when they swam for the University of Maryland nearly 10 years ago. Yesterday at Starlit Aquatic Swim Club, in the Penn Mutual Region II Long Course Masters Championships, they renewed their rivalry and together broke seven national 30-34 women's age group records.

Wise, 30, set records in the 50-meter breaststroke (37.9), 100-meter backstroke (1:17.2), 200-meter backstroke (2:43.3) and 400-meter freestyle (4:59.12).

Meet director Ruppert, 31, split her time breaking records and making certain the 15-team, 140-swimmer meet ran properly. In between handing out medals and ribbons, she set records in the 100-meter butterfly (1:11.9), 200-meter butterfly (2:34.6) and the 200-meter individual medley (2:42.5).

Dave McAfee, 71, was the outstanding male swimmer in the two-day meet.

20 years after Rome, Mulligan is still in the swim

Former Olympian still competes in swimming

By BETH SHEBOY

Bill Mulligan is a handsome, 42-year-old attorney from Chicago who swims with the Illinois Masters team which is competing in the National Long Course meet this week at the C.T. Branin Natatorium.

He claims he hasn't won a race in his age division recently but he does have a gold medal from the 1960 Olympics.

"A lot of swimmers set unrealistic goals. My goal is to stay within 10 percent of my college days," said Mulligan. "I want to be swimming in this program when I'm 60 and 75. I see others who are burning themselves out.

"With me it's an efficiency thing. In a relatively limited amount of time I set my limit and just go so far each day."

On an average of five times a week before work, Mulligan swims for around 45 minutes and the results of good health are evident in his trim physique. That's exactly what he swims for.

"This way I never dread workouts. I keep very strict rules and refuse to give it the time many others do. I'm a very goal-oriented person and there are many other goals I have to work toward," Mulligan said.

As a child, Mulligan was not even aware of the Olympic games. Now as a lawyer, many people he meets are not aware of his gold medal won in the 200-meter breaststroke.

"It's very interesting to watch people's reactions when they find out I won a medal. Generally, I'm the company lawyer, someone's father or a friend," Mulligan laughed. "If you think about it, there has to be a lot of people floating around in the world who won gold medals in the Olympics. Someone's going to run into them sometime."

Mulligan related an incident on the way to a meet when sports psychologist Keith Bell claimed to know of Mulligan's feats two decades ago.

"Bell said he knew about me because I had been the answer to a trivia question in his age group swimming meet. I'm an answer to a trivia question!" Mulligan exclaimed.

"Oh yea, I love it. You don't beat yourself around like we did for nothing do you? You do it for recognition.

"It's also fun when you're not feeling good about yourself to know other people recognize your accomplishments as something special," Mulligan said.

Mulligan is often asked why he specialized in the breaststroke. He was an NCAA breaststroke champ, an AAU National breaststroke champ and set the record in the event in the 1959 Pan-American games. He also holds the national 200 breaststroke long course record in his age group.

"I knew I was a swimmer. I'd tried all the other sports so from there I just eliminated it to which stroke was my best. At that time they only swam the 200 distance."

Mulligan thinks back to his days on the U.S. team as a great experience. "The sun and earth revolved around Rome, Italy. It was the height of the cold war and we were getting our butts kicked.

"Everyone was in Italy. It was a phenomenal games. What the athletes experience is very different from what people elsewhere get to see through the media.

"I read about Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali) when I got home and didn't know he won or even who he was but I'd been on the same plane with him," Mulligan said.

"What was absolutely spectacular is that every sport is represented and you get to meet everyone. I never would have had that opportunity to make so many friends in other sports."

A graduate of Miami University of Ohio, his college swim career ended shortly after the '60 Olympics and by the next games in '64, he was securely tied to law school studies.

Mulligan dabbled in water polo and tried other "health-saving" sports like racquetball and tennis but finally wound up back where his roots and heart were — swimming.

"Even though I didn't win I had my best time in the individual medley today and I'm happy. I really enjoy the social aspects of the meets," said Mulligan who got his mother, Jean into the act.

"This is something we can do together as a family. My mother gets to meet a whole fresh bunch of people," he added.

Next year Mulligan has a family mixed medley relay planned. The meet will be in Portland where his brother John, who will be 35, lives. Completing the group will be Jean, 72, and Mulligan's sister Sally who will be 40.

Joe Bottom was sitting alone outside C.T. Branin Natatorium Thursday enjoying the cooler air outside the pool and reflecting on his first Masters competition.

A member of the 1976 United States Olympic team, Bottom, now 26-years-old, is representing The Olympic Club of California in the National Masters Long Course Swim Championships here.

A native of Akron, Bottom said he was "out of shape. Twice a week I lift weights and every other week I get into the water."

A silver medalist in the 100-meter butterfly in Montreal, Bottom is now with Chappell and Company, an investment banking firm in Danville, Calif.

A graduate of the University of Southern California, he said, "I had trouble motivating myself to move on. I reflect on the past every once in a while.

"I'm excited about the things I've accomplished, but now the things I'm moving on to, a career, family, other meets are now taking the place of what's exciting in my life," Bottom said.

The Masters is a new experience to the youthful world traveler who looks back on his membership to the Olympic team as yet another great highlight.

Masters is a new experience for the personable athlete who said, "I never knew it was like this. I thought there would be cut off times for age groups.

"The (Masters) program is growing fast and they'll have to get to that someday," Bottom predicted.

As for his own participation, "I think I can put back into swimming a lot of things I've gotten out of it. I hope I can contribute by encouraging other swimmers."
